The Late Henry Blackburn.

I reminded my friend of one who ras in his time regarded as a much harper thorn in the side of the popular artist than ever the interviewer as be; and yet the art world got sed to him, and became his friend, and now laments his death. I allude of Henry Blackburn, who has recently of Henry Blackburn, who has recently established away on one of his Continental excursions in search of the picture ague. He and I were co-directors for what may be called the first edition of the "Pictorial World," and both resigned our seats together. He had secured an interest in a new supravage process, and we projected a scheme

Some people acribe the dearth of ublic support in Chicago to the uarrel between M. Jean de Reaste and Mdme. Nordica, resulting in the beence of the American lady from he company, and the consequent anoyance of her fellow-countrymen. Inference between the two artists is kely to be amicably settled before hese lines appear in print, and Mr. Frau will have ceased to say, like the oliceman of Gilbertian fame, a policeman's (manager's) life is not happy one."

I regret to hear that Mdms. Melha still suffering from the after-effects the severe attack of influences which shows a seised some time back. It has very sensibly decided to take tire rest until she is wanted for the tire rest until she is wanted for the country of the senson, and will problem, remain in the South of France.

THE ACTOR.

Imitations of the voice and gestures of well-known actors are often amusing, though when the imitator is himself an actor they are perhaps exacrely in good taste. Certainly the imitator, should choose carefully the subject-matter of his sketches. He should not introduce into it "patter" of a personal sort, such as I heard from the lips of a public entertainer the other day. Not only is such "patter" impertinent, but it is futile, for probably not one-teath or one-hundredth part of the audience understands the meaning of the allusions made.

So Mr. Harry Paulton sails for mybe sails for mybe sail that the entire entertains the meaning of the audience understands the meaning of the allusions made.

Angiers is to be held at their head-quarters, Masons, Hall Tavern, Cole-man-st., E.C., on Tuesday, 30th inst., when Mr. Frank Abraham will pre-side. A apecial general meeting of the members is called for April 6 to re-osive the resignation of Mr. James

And no doubt some people will ask,
"What did the folks in Southwark think shout?" Well, as far as I could see or hear, they thought nothing about it. They in fact seemed to be the only people who took no interest in it. Certainly with a great amount

The flame of to-day is indeed a thing of beauty. It is adorned with floral patterns in all the fashionable shades of colouring. Or we can have it in stripes, spots, and a variety of other lovely designs, or in plain colours, such as cream, pink, blue, cardinal. Nor are variety of colouring and design its only virtues. The manufacture of flamel has now reached such perfection that we can have it absolutely unshrinkable. A crowning virtue is this, for do we not know by bitter experience the sad results to a flame! blouse of a visit to the laundress.

bury steps ture is proof possible things are looking more hopeful than they did a few days ago. There are, indeed, other grounds for beliaving that such is the case. Since the block-ade of Crefe began, lest Sunday morning, there seems to have been a considerable change in the attitude of Greeco. That presumptious little Power is beginning to realise that the Federation of Europe, as Lord Salisbury called it, is a stern reality, and, what is more, that the hopes which have been raised as to differences between the Powers are not in the least likely to be fuifilled. Greek effervespence has a way of fixing out. It did so in 1886, when Mr. Gladstrum "co-serced" Greece by blockade for reasons considerably less urgent than those which have actuated the Powers in the present instance; and there is every probability that it will fassic out this time when the steady pressure of the overwhelming power of urited Europe is increasingly felt at Athens. For our own part, we doubt whether public opinion and the Greek secret societies will allow King deorge the tyield until the blockade has been extended from Crete to the Greek ports. But we shall be considerably surprised if that step, when taken, does not produce the desired result.

AN APPALLING STATE OF THINGS.

A more terrible indictment has never been brought against the House of Commons than the recent report on contagious of the Indian Army. In consequence of the discontinuance of proper sanitary precautions, the result of a resolution passed by that House, contagious disease has laid hold of our troops to an extent hitherto unknown, and it is no exaggeration to say that half our Army in Inqua is perpetually rotting away with one of the most awful of all diseases. The first consequence is that our military strength is enormously reduced, because half the men are either in hospital or quite unfit for active service.

LK OF THE PEOPLE.

On the top of the news of the Kaiser's huge naval programme comes the statement that the French intend to spend £32,000,000 on their navy in the next sight years. "I am not," said Mr. Goschen, "frightened at programmes," and one can agree with him that they are usually more formidable on paper than anywhere else. Nevertheless it is clear that if the French really intend, as they say, add 45 ships and 175 torpedo boats to their navy, our Government must not their navy, our Government for the means to do the same or more. The case was before the court on Tues of the means to do the same or more who had witnessed to lose a jot of her naval supremacy.

It is purely my own personal opinion. It is purely my own personal opinion, whather the continuous marking the supremacy.

Mr. Assaith, M.P., presided last inghat at a dinner at the Café Monico to Sir A. Milner, Governor-designate of Cape Colony, and High Commissions of Suth Africa. There were about 130 present, including Mr. A. J. Balfour, Mr. J. Morley, Mr. Q. J. Goechen, Mr. J. Chamberlain, Mr. St. John Brodrick, Mr. G. Curzon, Mr. L. Courtney, Mr. G. Balfour, and Sir G. Baden-Powell. Latters of regret were read from Lord Rosebery and Sir W. Harcourt.—Referring to the choice of Sir A. Milner by Mr. Goschen for the Permanent Civil Service, who ventured it casy that there had been no case of estection of a young and comparatively untried man for high and responsible work which had reflected more honour on the insight and the foresight of the responsible Minister.
